Uluru is the global icon of central Australia where you can be inspired by the power of the desert landscape in the heart of the outback as many artists have before you.

This region has an ancient Indigenous culture rich in story, dance, and of course, art.

There are many opportunities to experience authentic artwork whilst experiencing this unique landscape, ranging from rock art, paintings and historical artefacts.

Get involved and take part in demonstrations and workshops with local artists for a truly unique and authentic experience, and purchase beautiful art pieces as memories of your trip.

1. Uluru - Kata Tjuta National Park Cultural Centre

Start your trip at the Cultural Centre to deepen your experience and understanding of Uluru-Kata Tjuta National Park.

Everything is art here - from the design of the building, to the galleries within. The Walkatjara Art gallery is the community art centre- come and see the artists at work, learn about the Anangu culture and explore the stories behind their paintings.
